same thing to me as his father did in this session too. Jesse had told me if I didn't take my pants down that I would never be allowed to come back again to computer class. I said fine, I won't tell and then I pulled my pants down to my knees and I was held tight around my waist so I could not move and I had to hold onto one of the chairs in the room, bent over and Jesse tried to push his penis which was hard like his father's was, into my behind, Jesse hurt me very much and I screamed out but he covered up my mouth and kept on trying and pushing his penis into my behind. After a while he stopped and I stopped and pulled up my pants up and went back to my computer to work. I can also remember that when Mr. Friedman did things with his penis to me and the other boys he would whisper to us something like, "[Y]ou won't come back," and also he would say "[D]on't tell your mom or you won't be able to come back." I can also remember in the first session that Mr. Friedman pulled his pants and came over to me and told me his penis was out and it was hard and he pulled my pants down and he took his penis and rubbed it against my penis. He did this for about a minute or so and then he stopped. Jesse was there too but he was just screaming at everyone. This hurt me and I cried but he didn't stop rubbing his penis against my penis. I can remember that everyone in the class had to touch both Mr. Friedman and Jesse's penis,

they would come around to the computer with their pants down when we had to touch their penises. I want to talk to [the detectives] about the session in Mr. Friedman's computer class. This session was started in January 1987 and it was on _____ at about 4:30 p.m. The same boys were in my class as were in the first session. I can remember, that Jesse and Mr. Friedman did some of the same things to me and the other boys as they did in the first session. The second session was also run for 10 weeks like the first one did. I remember that it was in the beginning of the session when Mr. Friedman came over to my computer and he told me take my pants down. _____ was next to me didn't say anything because he didn't want to get into any trouble. Jesse was in the room too, anyway I stood up and I didn't want to get hit very hard so I did it. Mr. Friedman made me bend over and hold onto the back of the computer class and he took his hard penis and pushed it into by behind and it hurt me a little and I cried to myself because it hurt and Mr. Friedman held me around my shoulders and Jesse was sitting on the couch just relaxing and watching what his father was doing to me. The other boys were just watching and I was saying to myself to tell Mr. Friedman to get off of me. Mr. Friedman stopped after a while and then I pulled my pants and went back to my computer. One other thing that I remember that happened during the first session was that Jesse had gotten some of the sticky stuff from his penis on my shoulder. This was during the same time when Jesse had been pushing his penis into my behind. I come home and wiped it off my clothes. Now I want to talk abut my second session again and about what Jesse did to me. Jesse came over to me and he told me to stand up and pull your pants down, this was on a different day in the beginning of the class but not the same day when his father did it to me. Anyway I stood up and Jesse pulled them down, my pants. Jesse said this to me, to pull my pants down and I said no. Jesse had his zipper undone and his penis was out, it was very hairy and gross looking. Jesse's penis was as hard as a rock. Jesse told me to bend over on one of the chairs in front if my computer. My hands were on the on the chair and Jesse put his hands on top of mine and then be tried to push his hard penis into my behind. The only way I can explain . . . was that is was like a popcycle trying to go into my behind. Jesse could not get it to work, get it into the hole in my behind. But the hole in my behind was too small. I also remember that after Jesse tried to do this to me, he stopped after a while and I don't remember crying out or anything. I just went back to my computer. I can also remember that Jesse and his father used to fight with each other, because Jesse used to scream at everyone and his father use to yell at him and then Jesse would do the same thing back to the father. I also remember in the first session that Mr. Friedman had tried to put his penis into _____ rear and also Jesse did this to him too and _____ screamed out and Jesse would cover his mouth. He had to do the same thing that I did by bending over the chairs too and holding on to the back of the chairs. I also remember that _____ was hit a lot by Mr. Friedman and Jesse and one time I remember on two times that Jesse pulled _____ pants down around his legs and he hit him in the behind. _____ cried out and he was told to be quiet and _____ would stop. I remember that _____ also had to touch both Mr. Friedman and Jesse's penises two times like everyone else did. I also remember _____, he had to pull his pants down to his knees and Mr. Friedman and Jesse spanked him at the same time and I also remember that Mr. Friedman tried on one day to put his penis into _____ behind, but _____ penis would not come down, so the could not get his pants down and Mr. Friedman, put his own penis back into his pants. Also one time I remember that _____ had to pull his pants down for Mr. Friedman and Mr. Friedman tried to put his penis into _____ behind. _____ screamed out Mom and Daddy and Mr. Friedman told him to shut up and be quiet. My mother, father and [the detectives] are here with me. Detective Merriweather is writing my story about

Mr. Friedman and Jesse and the computer classes. I swear this is the truth and all I can remember at this time.

Gary Meyers Interviewed by Detective Hatch and Detective Jones

Hatch: We've had kids who stated that they saw you and that you're involved, OK?

Jones: We want to go through this with you. Don't deny it yet. If you question twelve kids, you'll get 12 different answers. Take Arnie Friedman's own words. But he admitted this.

Gary: I didn't see it. I didn't hear it.

Jones: Arnold was under no obligation to admit, but he did. Why would Arnold Friedman admit to something that wasn't true. The kids know that he did it. Take Arnold's own words... I know it's impossible to speak to him now but he's openly admitted to this in an open courtroom. He said "I did it."

[Ann Meyers enters room and she is asked to leave]

Hatch: [REDACTED] and M. E. both say that they saw Gary engaged in it... Arnold Friedman did not have to admit this. No one put him in a dark room. He said it in open court with an attorney. He sodomized them. What I say to you as an intelligent human being is what did you say to that. He admitted he sodomized a lot of children

Gary: inaudible

Hatch: Arnold Friedman says in a courtroom in front of a judge... I'm not going to tell you, you tell us. What we're trying to determine is... Arnold Friedman in court says that he sodomized children ... The judge said that there are other children and exactly what he did.

[Inaudible discussion]

Hatch: We are trying to find out who the other victims are to help the parents and those children. Arnold Friedman will not be charged with any other additional charges. There's no axe to grind here. There's no axe to grind here. It was all stipulated in open court that there would be no further charges. One judge and the DA says no further charges will be made. Once the stipulation was made with the judge, no further charges will be made. What we want to do is to let the parents know if there are other children that we aren't aware of so that they can get psychological help for the children. We also learn how to deal with pedophiles and how they operate, how they operate and their method of seduction... Not one child came forward. Why? They were blackmailed. Sexual perversions if a person is sexually abused and wanted to keep your mouth shut and took photos and took notes and told you if you said anything to anyone you would be in worse trouble because they would show the picture -- what if the person was seven or eight years old... Could you imagine a copy to our mother, a copy to a smut magazine with the name and address to show that you were a pervert?

Gary: inaudible

Hatch: Did you know that much five years ago? I'm 43 years old and when I was seven I didn't know as much as I do now.

Gary: inaudible

Hatch: [angrily] I think you're very funny... No evidence to speculate anything happened... You're reasonably intelligent I wouldn't say you're a genius but you are reasonably intelligent. Arnold Friedman stipulated in court that he sodomized a large number of children.

Gary: No he never touched me.

Hatch: Oh, it happened to everyone else but not to you. How many sessions did you have at Friedman's.

Gary: 8 to 12.

Hatch: Arnold Friedman had a certain age group. Pre-adolescent males. He wouldn't be interested in a guy like you? You were nine years old and nothing happened? An eight year old, you don't know as much as you do at 13 years old. I'm saying to you, you went through a physical change. You look different at 13 than you did at 8. Because of that difference, Arnold Friedman no longer wanted you. Pedophiles are very selective. Like heterosexuals. Some like blondes some like brunettes. Arnold

Friedman liked eight-year-olds. You'll find out as you get older that certain things are true, certain things are lies. You denying this doesn't mean it didn't happen. Arnold Friedman admitted it and it's true. When young, impressionable children are running around....

Gary: inaudible question

Jones: Why don't you ask your sister if something happened? A lot of boys seem to have concerns about their own sexuality.

[Inaudible conversation between Meyers and Jones]

Hatch: What about a homosexual act over a period of years? Formative years? Would you consider that having an affect on a person's sexuality? Do you think that determines if you are a homosexual? If a person was involved in a homosexual act during preadolescent years after they are forced out of it do you think they would like it? What about a man who takes unfair advantage of children? If you are going to be a homosexual, you'll be a homosexual.

Gary: inaudible

Hatch: Well guess what? You are absolutely wrong. Most children who abuse children have been abused themselves. It's a monster created with in you. This little monster inside you. This little voice and every now and then it rears its ugly head. Unless the victim knows enough about the problem to get himself straightened out. If suppressed, it's a two-fold problem. One is anger and frustration. And the other is acting itself out. It's a no-win situation unless the person goes and gets help and admits that he was victimized. If something bad happens even though its not the kid's fault the child blames himself and feels tremendous guilt. We find, with help that they can see it's not their fault. And then the place the blame on the person who created the situation and then they are a lot better off. Don't over intimidate women. Don't over intimidate women. You're a super-smart intelligent individual. You'd have to be an idiot not to see this. To a child, you don't need a knife, guy or machete. The seduction in force can be very subtle. If Arnold Friedman took a small boy and put a very big guy over him, what do you think the little guy will do? There are children who would defy but a very small percentage. 90% would submit. Most kids would be intimidated. If a pedophile wants to get his goal accomplished, I'll have 10 or 12 kids in my class. I know the kids. I know those who I can intimidate and those I cannot. And I'll cut out those that I can't intimidate. Then I go to the next stage in the process and I might cut out even a few more. You might go so far, and then that's that. If you don't want to do something you won't. That's another stage. It's a process of elimination and psychology plays a big part. And then there are other methods other than intimidation. There's carrots and rewards. You are having so much fun and you're getting rewards. If you do something right, you get a reward. A candy bar, a pat on the back.

Do you remember games of a sexual nature? Stroker? Strip Poker? [checks notes] Exploding fists?

Gary: Exploding fists was a Karate Game.

Hatch: Did you ever see any porn magazines?

Gary: No

Hatch: Did you ever go to any other room in the house?

Gary: Yes.

Hatch: What room?

Gary: Jesse's bedroom to play with the Commodore computer and nothing happened.

Hatch: Did Jesse help with the classes?

Gary: no answer

Hatch: Did Gary Meyers ever take a special SAT class? Who was in the class? [REDACTED] [REDACTED]?

Hatch: Did you ever see a magazine called Gallery Magazine?

Gary: No

Hatch: [calls Ann Meyers back into the room] Gary was a wise guy and I didn't like his answer.

AFFIDAVIT

A detective of the Nassau County Police Department, Shield No. 402, assigned to the Sex Crimes Squad.

----- X
STATE OF NEW YORK)
: ss.:
COUNTY OF NASSAU)

I, WILLIAM HATCH, being duly sworn, depose and say:

That I am a detective in the Nassau County Police Department, Shield No. 402, presently assigned to the Sex Crimes Squad. I have been a member of the Nassau County Police Department for approximately nineteen (19) years. I investigate numerous cases involving sexual assaults of a myriad variety.

On the morning of November 4, 1987 I was notified by Detective Sgt. Socher of the District Attorney's Squad that his squad had assisted the United States Postal Inspectors in the execution of a United States District Court (Eastern District) search warrant of the residence of ARNOLD and ELAINE FRIEDMAN, located at 17 Picadilly Road, Great Neck, New York. I was advised that Postal Inspector John McDermott was in charge of the case. The search warrant ordered the seizure of all photographs, magazines, books, video tapes and other unusual depictions of children engaging in sexually explicit conduct, along with letters, envelopes, files, correspondence, personal computer discs, etc., relating to the distribution and receipt of child pornography.

I was in contact with Postal Inspector McDermott and he stated that approximately twenty (20) magazines illustrating nude photos of pre-adolescent and teenage males in various sexual poses were found in the FRIEDMAN house. Along with the magazines were discovered various pamphlets, booklets and brochures depicting boys in nude and sexual poses.

It was further discovered during the search that the FRIEDMAN's had one floor of their home set up like a nursery school with small tables, chairs, toys, and games. Photographs of this room were provided to me by Inspector McDermott along with photographs of the booklets and magazines. (See attached photos.) Lists of names and phone numbers were also present and confiscated.

I was advised by Postal Inspector McDermott that the postal authorities have been investigating Mr. FRIEDMAN since July, 1984 when they were notified by the United States Custom Service that he was receiving "kiddie porn" through the mail. I was further advised that an undercover operation was launched by the postal authorities and "kiddie porn" was exchanged between ARNOLD FRIEDMAN and the postal inspectors.

On the afternoon of November 4, 1987 I notified Sgt. Galasso of these facts and an investigation was begun by the Sex Crimes Squad. It was noted from the lists confiscated that most of the students listed were boys.

On the evening of November 10, 1987 Detective Wallene Jones, Shield No. 494 and myself were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. [REDACTED] who resided in Great Neck Estates. Mr. and Mrs. [REDACTED] have three sons: [REDACTED] 14 years old [REDACTED] 12 years old; and [REDACTED] 10 years old. I interviewed all three boys and found that both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] had been abused. Both boys stated that they were shown books and pictures of nude males and were read stories from these books by Mr. FRIEDMAN. Both boys stated that Mr. FRIEDMAN would fondle their buttocks while they looked on or he read them these books.

I was also advised by [REDACTED] that he was photographed by Mr. FRIEDMAN while he was in the upstairs bathroom with a younger boy of the class. The younger boy was "sitting on the commode with his pants down holding his balls" and [REDACTED] was coming out of the bathroom when the photo was taken.

[REDACTED] stated that Mr. FRIEDMAN had fondled his buttocks and had also taken him into a room, off the classroom where there was a big desk with a computer terminal on top.

[REDACTED] stated that Mr. FRIEDMAN took a "small like cable box" and plugged it into the computer. The figure of a man came on the computer screen. The figure was first of a man showing only from the neck to the head. Mr. FRIEDMAN typed questions into the computer and the man would answer. Mr. FRIEDMAN would type in "do you like penises?" The man would answer audibly "If I were gay, I'd like penises." Mr. FRIEDMAN would then roll a switch on the cable box and then the man

Case 2:06-cv-03136-JS Document 37-6 Filed 12/07/20 Page 15 of 48 PageID #: 5079 would be shown from the waist to the head. [REDACTED] described the man has having on a shirt that was unbuttoned down the front.
He said the man didn't wear an undershirt and had a hairy chest.

Darryn further stated that Mr. FRIEDMAN would say to the boys, "You guys mustn't tell anyone about these books".
At the end of the class he would give the boys computer games to take home as a reward for keeping quiet.

I also interviewed [REDACTED] who indicated to me that he observed copies of "Playgirl Magazine" in Mr. FRIEDMAN's office.

All three of the aforementioned boys attended Mr.
FRIEDMAN's computer school. They would attend there after their regular school day during the week.

On the afternoon of November 13, 1987 I informed
Sgt. Galasso that the list of names that Det. Wallene Jones had compiled totaled approximately eighty-one (81).

Furthermore, I have had conversations with Det.
Alex Armstrong, Shield No. 8, assigned to the District Attorney Squad and also Det. Anthony Sgueglia, Shield No. 334, present assigned to the Sex Crimes Squad, concerning this case.
Det. Armstrong has advised me of what observations he made during the course of the issuance of a federal search warrant at Mr. FRIEDMAN's home. (See Det. Armstrong's affidavit attached hereto.) Det. Sgueglia has further advised me of the conversations he had with two students at Mr. FRIEDMAN's school, namely [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] (See Det. Sguegl:

Based upon information and belief both ARNOLD FRIEDMAN and his wife are presently continuing to teach young boys computer training at their home located at 17 Picadilly Road, Great Neck, New York.

Based upon my experience, the property sought by this search warrant may be easily and quickly destroyed or disposed of. During my training as a Nassau County Police Officer I have been involved in the quick magnetic erasure of various tapes and discs. These tapes and discs may be immediately erased on a computer at the touch of a button. I anticipate that if the FRIEDMANS are aware of our presence and purpose they will destroy the evidence sought to be obtained by this warrant. Based upon conversations with some of the students' parents it appears that Mr. FRIEDMAN is aware of our investigation and is attempting to obstruct it.

WHEREFORE, your affiant respectfully requests that a search warrant be issued authorizing your affiant or any other police officer of the Nassau County Police Department to enter the premises known and described as the single family, detached dwelling, located at 17 Picadilly Road, Great Neck, New York, and therein search for and seize any sexual devices, photographs, magazines, books, film, audio tapes, video tapes and other unusual depictions of children engaging in sexually explicit conduct and letters, envelopes, files, correspondence notes, lists of students, lists of pornographic distributors, personal computer discs, and the personal computers needed to read the computer discs relating to pornography all of which are being used in connection with one or more pieces of evidence of violations of Article 235, 263 and 260 of the Penal Law of the State of New York.

35. All photographs, films, and/or videotapes taken in connection with this case.

I, SE, attended a meeting at Temple Beth-El of Great Neck, on Wednesday, November 16, 1988. The subject matter of this meeting was "Sexual Abuse of Children".

I arrived at the parking lot of the Temple at approximately 7:45 p.m. There was a small, two-door car parked in the lot, with two (2) males in the front seat. The car had bumper stickers on the rear bumper. The two men in the car seemed to be kissing each other at the time when I got out of my car.

There were approximately two hundred (200) chairs set up in the room where the meeting was held; about 40-45 people were present. Most of the attendees were female.

I turned my tape recorder on inside of my pocketbook when I overheard someone ask the Rabbi if it was okay if he taped the meeting. The Rabbi said it was, so I took out my recorder and put it on top of the empty seat beside me in order to get better reception on the tape.

The Rabbi called the meeting to order at about 8:15 p.m. He explained that Detective Sgt. Frances Galasso, Commanding Officer of the Nassau County Sex Crimes Squad, had not yet arrived at the meeting. He did not know if she would attend, as she was called out on an emergency on the South Shore.

The meeting was started and the following panelists were called up to speak:

Sandra Kaplan, M.D.

Victor Fonari, M.D.

Joan Spector, D.S.W

Carol Samit, C.S.W.

Thomas Feniger, Ph.D.

After the above five (5) persons spoke to the audience, the Rabbi again got up to the microphone. He stated that Detective Galasso just arrived at the meeting, and told the audience that there would be no more photographing nor tape recording. There were two (2) uniformed police officers standing at the back of the room, and the cameras and tape recorders were given to them.

I gave one of the officers my recorder, and took notes as Detective Galasso spoke.

The following are some of the remarks of Detective Sgt. Frances Galasso, Commanding Officer, Nassau County Sex Crimes Squad:

Sex abuse is running rampant in this County.

I cannot discuss this case without jeopardizing the rights of plaintiffs and defendants.

This is the largest case in number of defendants and number of plaintiffs.

We have merely scratched the surface.

The "abused" becomes "abuser".

I have NEVER arrested a sex offender who has not been a victim!

Working for one (1) year on this investigation; has eighteen (18) years on the job.

At the moment, working in Uniondale and Freeport on cases.

There are many cooperative/many uncooperative people in the community.

Tell any person whose child set foot through the door, that child WAS a victim!

It is a very complicated case.

Some parents said that they had to speak with their attorneys or psychiatrists first.

She thinks she is going to do well on this case.

Re: People v. ROBERT J. IZZO

Dear Inspector Olsen:

On Friday, March 23, 1990 I was informed that Detective Sergeant L. Gorman of the Nassau County Police Department Sex Crimes Squad is scheduled to appear as a guest speaker at a Child Sexual Abuse Seminar conducted by the staff of North Shore University Hospital on March 30, 1990. In addition to Detective Sergeant Gorman, Dr. Cathryn J. Fenton, Superintendent of Hicksville schools is also scheduled to appear.

As the Chief of the Major Offense Bureau assigned to the prosecution of the ROBERT IZZO matter, the appearance of a Nassau County Police Department representative and Dr. Fenton at this Seminar causes me great concern. Since the inception of this case, the Office of the District Attorney has strived to investigate and prosecute this matter independent of any psychiatric or therapeutic health professionals. This has been maintained because law enforcement investigations into matters of child sexual abuse must remain free from any appearance that law enforcement officials are utilizing the services of psychological agencies and medical professionals in their criminal investigations.

The importance of this independence between our agencies in protecting the integrity of a criminal investigation was most recently exhibited by the verdict in the McMartin case in California. All reports and interviews with the jurors concerning the acquittal in that case indicate that the jurors were extremely troubled by the role of the psychologists who conducted the interviews of the children involved in that investigation. It was noted that although psychologists, based upon their training are extremely useful in enabling children to discuss instances of sexual abuse, their lack of training in the legal system and the evidentiary limitations placed upon child interviews by the courts make the use of such professionals in a criminal investigation or association with law enforcement personnel during a pending prosecution, extremely unwise. It is my opinion that in order to protect the integrity of the ROBERT IZZO investigation and prosecution, any formal association such as that scheduled between the Nassau County District Attorney's Office and the Nassau County Police Department with North Shore University Hospital, who is responsible for the counselling of many of the IZZO complainants, must be avoided.

I would appreciate a reconsideration of your Department's decision to send a representative of the Nassau County Police Department to the North Shore University Seminar on March 30, 1990. Your consideration to this matter is greatly appreciated.

Parents Seek Therapy for Abuse Victims

By Kathy Boccella

While investigators prepare their case against a Great Neck teacher who was arrested last week on charges of sexually molesting four young boys, parents of the boys say they are seeking psychiatric help for their children.

According to those who work with young victims, therapy is the first step toward overcoming the immense emotional trauma of sexual abuse.

"It's probably the most devastating, all-pervasive combination of trauma outside of a Holocaust situation that a kid could go through," said David A. Ackerman, a social worker who leads a sexual abuse treatment team at West Nassau Mental Health Center. "It affects every aspect of the person's development."

On Wednesday, Arnold Friedman, 56, a retired Bayside High School teacher, and his son, Jesse, 18, were charged with sodomizing and sexually abusing four boys who took computer lessons at Friedman's home. Arnold Friedman also faces federal charges of receiving and sending pornography in the mail. A three-year federal investigation of child pornography led to their arrest; allegations of abuse surfaced after Nassau County police began to interview students.

Both Friedmans have pleaded innocent to the state charges.

Experts say the physical damage to sexually abused children is often minimal. It is the emotional scars that can last a lifetime.

"The recurrence of the trauma can be triggered off by almost anything: Somebody might start dating, get pregnant, contemplate marriage," said Ackerman.

Despite the agony they experience, children who are sexually abused rarely confide in their parents, experts say.

While adults may find such behavior hard to understand, psychiatrists say keeping mum is part of the dynamic of the abuse situation.

"There are several reasons why children do not talk about it," said Dr. Marvin L. Blumberg, a psychiatrist and chairman of the department of pediatrics at Jamaica Hospital. "One is that the youngster feels that the adult [who is abusing the child] is trusted and won't do anything wrong, especially if it's somebody he knows. If he says it's alright, it must be alright."

"Sometimes it's a question of bribery — don't tell anybody, it's our secret, it's fun. For older children, in their teens, after getting started they may feel they'll be blamed. They think, 'It's my fault and so I better keep my mouth shut.'"

Parents are generally more aware when a family member is abusing their child than an outsider, the experts say. When they do find out what has hap-

DA to Seek Order for AIDS Tests

The Nassau County District Attorney's Office will ask a judge to order Arnold and Jesse Friedman to submit to AIDS tests, a spokesman said yesterday.

"We've been in touch with several parents and some have expressed concern," said the spokesman, Ed Grilli.

The parents had requested the test on Thursday, a day after Friedman, 56, a computer and music teacher, was arrested on charges that he sodomized and sexually abused four young boys in his Great Neck home. Arrested with Friedman was his son, Jesse, 18, a student at the State University at Purchase.

Arnold Friedman also faces federal charges of receiving and sending child pornography through the mail. Both Friedmans have pleaded innocent to the state charges.

Grilli said District Attorney Denis Dillon would request the court order sometime this week. He said Friedman has not indicated whether he would voluntarily submit to the test.

Mark Heller, the Friedmans' attorney, was not available for comment.

pened, they may feel hurt that the child did not confide in them.

"They can't understand why the child was notable to come to them," Ackerman said. "They blame the kid, they blame themselves. Very often they deny what has happened."

Ackerman said sexual abuse often leaves children with a distorted view of themselves; they may feel tainted, corrupted or unlikeable.

For boys, sexual abuse can lead to homosexuality, especially if the abuse takes place in their teen years when feelings of guilt and shame are strongest. "They may feel they let it happen. That has a prolonged effect and is very often personality-destructive," Blumberg said.

Or they may turn into bullies, trying to prove their masculinity through aggressive behavior. Girls who are sexually abused may turn to prostitution, he said.

A less conspicuous side effect is the loss of the ability to trust because the abuser often is someone who was trusted and liked by both the child and the family.

Other side effects can range from the inability to sleep to bad grades to a shyness that previously did not exist.

experts say. Problems with drugs and alcohol can also develop.

While parents may be attuned to the signs of sexual abuse, it is often difficult to spot the abuser. "There is not a typical offender," Ackerman said. Pedophiles, or people who sexually desire children, come from all walks of life and span socio-economic groups, he said.

But there are some common threads that are found in the personalities of pedophiles. According to Blumberg, they are emotionally immature and weak, and are looking for love and attention. Often they feel they cannot engage in sex with adults, even if they are married and have children. Many were themselves sexually abused as children.

As with rape, child sexual abuse cases are difficult to prosecute and traumatic for the victims. Cases often are plea-bargained because parents do not want their children reliving the experience in a courtroom, Ackerman said.

If they do go to trial, defense attorneys often suggest that the child fabricated the offense, he said.

"I would say it is very unusual that a child would make up sexual abuse," Blumberg said. "They're more likely to lie that it doesn't happen than [that] it does."

New Arrest in Child-Sex Case

By Bill Van Hantze and Alvin E. Bessent

A Great Neck youth was arrested yesterday and accused of participating in orgies of child sexual abuse arranged by computer teacher Arnold Friedman and his son, in which young boys were sodomized during classes in Friedman's home.

Ross Goldstein, 17, of 51 Picadilly Rd. was taken into custody at his home yesterday about one hour before he was due to graduate from an alternative high school in the North Shore community, police said. He was charged with 14 counts of first-degree sodomy, two counts of first-degree sexual abuse, and two counts of using a child in a sexual performance, police said. The abuse allegedly occurred during orgies arranged by Arnold Friedman and his son Jesse between March 1, 1986, and June 30, 1986, and between Dec. 9, 1986 and March 10, 1987.

Goldstein's attorney could not be reached for comment.

Goldstein's was the first of a number of additional arrests expected soon in connection with the abuse, which involved at least five victims previously unknown. Arnold Friedman had admitted abusing 13 young boys when he pleaded guilty in March to 42 counts of various forms of sexual abuse.

"There will be other arrests, possibly four others," said Det. Sgt. Fran Galasso, head of the Nassau police sex crimes unit. "These were additional friends of Jesse who were invited to the Friedman home to participate in these sexual performances," Galasso said.

Jesse Friedman — previously charged with 54 counts of sodomy, sexual abuse and endangering the welfare of a child — will be rearrested and hit with additional, similar charges, Galasso said. The earlier charges are still pending in Nassau County Court.

The newly cited victims, all boys aged 7 to 11, were sodomized and forced to perform oral sex in full view of other computer students, police said. Additional details of the abuse were revealed by previously identified victims during sessions with their therapists, Galasso said.

"We suspected initially that something more was involved, that there was information the children were reluctant to release. We know from experience that, normally, pedophiles like to share their interest with other pedophiles," Galasso said.

Goldstein and Jesse Friedman had been friends for about two years, police said. The two had been classmates at The Village School in Great Neck, an alternative school for students with emotional or learning disabilities, police said.

Goldstein, who was apprehended at 2:55 p.m., was scheduled to participate in graduation ceremonies at the school at 4:30 p.m., police said. Charles Piemonte, who identified himself as the head of the school, said he was aware that police had arrested the boy. He said the boy had "learning problems," but declined to comment further.

Jesse Friedman, 18, who was a student at the State University at Purchase when charged in November, is currently free on $250,000 bail.

Arnold Friedman, 56, was an award-winning teacher who taught for 20 years at Bayside High School in Queens. He is serving a 10- to 30-year prison sentence. He pleaded guilty in March to sodomizing and otherwise sexually abusing 13 young boys, all of whom were students in computer classes conducted in his home. Arnold Friedman also pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn to sending child pornography through the mail

Opinion:We Are Not Facing A Serious Water Shortage

Ed. Note: The following opinion piece is in response to an op-ed article by Sonia Sable, a Great Neck resident. In her article, Ms. Sable questioned the policy and timing of imposing water restrictions on residents while granting water permits to commercial developers. In her response, the Water Commissioners of the Manhasset-Lakeville Water District—Brian Jennings, James Sharkey, and Fr. Gould—make clear that the water permits were not granted while a moratorium was in effect.

The Manhasset-Lakeville Water District, contrary to what was written in a recent opinion piece, is not facing a "serious water shortage." We are, however, faced with state-mandated water pumpage caps at a time when difficult zoning and land-management decisions are being made by the nine incorporated villages and parts of North Hempstead that we serve.

Manhasset-Lakeville, unlike most of the districts served by Nassau County's 41 public and private water suppliers, remains comparatively undeveloped. The 400-acre Whitney estate in Manhasset is the largest undeveloped tract in Nassau. The village of North Hills, home to only hundreds a decade ago, today has a population of more than 5,000. Some our largest customers—businesses and industrial parks—have increased their water consumption commensurate with their expansion in recent years. The Northern Boulevard business district has boomed and developers have sought, and continue to seek, permission to develop tracts that lay empty or underutilized.

Long Island gets all of its water from underground sources. New York State's Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) determined in the fall of 1986 that the withdrawal of water from Nassau County's underground aquifers now equals or exceeds the amount of water being charged. There are hydrology experts who disagree with the DEC's position and maintain that the rate of recharge remains higher than the discharge rate.

Our district was mandated by the DEC that it cannot pump more than 3.6 billion gallons a year, in any one year, over the next five years. The state's cap quantity was based on our actual pumpage between 1980 and 1984. Considerable development (with attendant water demand) occurred in the interim. Dozens of residential and commercial projects had already been granted building permits or site plan approvals by a zoning entity along with a letter of water availability granted by the district. The letter entitles a property owner access to water. To compound the issue, we had pumped 3.8 billion gallons of water to our customers in 1986, not knowing that the DEC was about to announce its pumpage caps.

The district imposed a moratorium on the issuance of all new letters of water availability and reviewed applications that were still pending. That moratorium was imposed by us in November 1986 and was suspended in April of this year. Effective October 4, we reinstated that moratorium based upon adverse pumpage trends which occurred during a dry summer. We have requested a meeting with the DEC to discuss the unique problems that confront the Manhasset-Lakeville Water District and are continuing to review the effectiveness of the existing water conservation programs. We are also considering additional conservation measures.

We have implemented some of the strictest water conservation programs in Nassau County to help the district comply with the DEC's water pumpage limits. And we've found that the overwhelming majority of our customers are complying without policies regarding lawn sprinkling (which is limited to odd and even numbered days, depending on your house number) and the filling of pools (those with a capacity of more than 1,500 gallons must obtain water from outside the district.) Large scale water users, like car washes and restaurants, have voluntarily agreed to cut down on their water usage. We are considering a policy whereby the heaviest water users would have to pay a surcharge on the number of gallons consumed beyond a certain point. There are some conservation measures that are out of our jurisdiction. Some letters of water availability that were granted in the pre-cap days of the early 1980's are not being acted upon until late 1986. We cannot, in the name of water conservation, rescind these letters without facing a lawsuit that we would surely lose.

Elected officials in Nassau County, such as ourselves, know that preserving our quality of life is of the utmost importance to the people we serve. The answer to the quandary that we are facing lies in responsible zoning decisions, the public acquisition of environmentally sensitive property, when possible, and wise use of our precious water supply. Water is something too many of us take for granted. Our most valued resource is cheap and sufficient for our present needs and those in the foreseeable future. We're working hard to keep it that way and, with your help, we will.

Manhasset-Lakeville Water District
Board of Commissioners

Jennings to Run Again For Water District

Brian Jennings, a commissioner of the Manhasset-Lakeville Fire-Water District, is running unopposed for another three-year term in his present post. The longtime Manhasset resident has served as a commissioner since November 1981. Voting will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 13 between 5:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. at Manhasset-Lakeville Firehouses Number 1 (on Bayview Avenue in Manhasset), Number 4 (on Northern Boulevard in Great Neck) and Number 5 (on 78th Avenue in New Hyde Park).

"The job has changed significantly over the years," Mr. Jennings said, in a recent interview. "When I first started, we mostly dealt with installing new mains and equipment." Now, he continued, the board is faced with state-mandated water pumpage caps, the need to develop effective conservation programs, and adhere to stricter water quality standards.

District Cover Fire and Water

Manhasset-Lakeville's district is one of three in Nassau County whose commissioners oversee both Fire and Water District. In recent years, the board has upgraded its computer systems, which has made billing customers more efficient. The computer upgrade has also enabled fire dispatchers not only to relay information to the district's volunteer firefighters regarding the site of a fire, but also where the nearest hydrant is located, and if any hazardous material is stored on the property. Mr. Jennings, an active member of Firehouse Number Two for more than 15 years, now serves as an auxiliary member. He's hoping that many will respond to the Fire Department's call for additional volunteers. All those that are over the age of 18, and interested in joining the fire department, should contact the firehouse nearest them.

New Wells Ready to Go

"We've also negotiated with the owners of large, open spaces and successfully purchased well-sites at extremely low cost," Commissioner Jennings stated. New wells are almost ready to go on-line along Shelter Rock Road, near the Shelter Rock School, and at the Spruce Pond development in North Hills. Plans are underway for well-construction at the Gracefield and Stone Hill (the former Paley estate) properties. Nine incorporated villages in Manhasset and Great Neck fall within the district's jurisdiction. Unincorporated portions of Manhasset, North New Hyde Park, and Great Neck are also served by Manhasset-Lakeville's 14 wells and five firehouses.

Conservation Still Necessary

Commissioner Jennings foresees the need for further water conservation over the next three years as Manhasset-Lakeville, like Nassau County's 41 other public and private water suppliers, works to keep its annual water pumpage within the cap levels set by the state's Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC).

"We recently reinstated a moratorium that will extend for another 22 to 24 months,"

Mr. Jennings said, referring to the moratorium now in place on the issuance of new letters of water availability. "This will give us a chance to assess past conservation measures and examine additional options." The Board of Commissioners have had a moratorium in place for all but six months over the past two years. Commissioner Jennings serves on the board along with James Sharkey and Francis Gould.

Mr. Jennings, his wife, Ann, and their eight children have lived in Manhasset since 1982. The Notre Dame and New York University alumnus is director of New York Telephone's Community Relations Department for Long Island.

Help For Victims Of Sex Abuse Stressed In Temple Program

By Paul Lipkowitz

Every speaker at Temple Beth El's program on "Sexual Abuse of Children" on Nov. 10 stressed the need for help for victims of child sexual abuse. In no uncertain terms, all underscored one point: young victims of sexual abuse could be victims for life, if no support is given.

Referring to the Friedman case in Great Neck, Detective Sgt. Frances Galasso of the Nassau County Sex Crimes Squad warned all parents of victims. "Every child that set foot through that door was a victim in one way or another," she said, "and it's vitally important that every parent who hasn't does get their child help."

Accommodation Syndrome

How much abuse could have gone on, how it might affect children, and what parents can do now, were some of the questions the speakers tried to answer at the program.

The "Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation syndrome," identified by Roland Summit at U.C.L.A., illustrates the problems children face in disclosing their sexual abuse. "The syndrome is based on the fact that there is tremendous fear and rejection of these issues in the society at large," said Dr. Victor Forman, physician in charge of Pediatric Consultation at Cornell University Medical College.

He continued: "Every child faces a scenario where they are incurring their sexual abuse to the adult world where they are often met with blame, disbelief, and rejection."

These children are abandoned by the very people they need to support them."

"This reinforces their initial feeling of helplessness before the abuser. In the end, these children are made to feel continually helpless," said Dr. Forman.

Short and Long-Term Effects

"The majority of sexual abuse cases do not leave physical signs," said Dr. Sandra Kaplan, Chief of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry at Cornell University Medical College. Short-term effects she listed were diminished self-esteem, a sense of helplessness, anger and pains which are often associated with anxiety in children, overly compliant behavior, delinquent behavior, and an extraordinary fear of males. Most perpetrators of sex crimes are men, Dr. Kaplan noted.

Every speaker warned that if no intervention on behalf of the child is made, the long-term effects of child sexual abuse can be severe.

Dr. Kaplan said problems that could follow for abused children include difficulties in forming relationships with others, feelings of isolation and problems with intimacy, feelings of being branded or stigmatized like "damaged goods," risk of repeated victimization at home and a risk of attempt of suicide. Large numbers of suicides, Dr. Kaplan added, were sexually abused as children.

Advice to Parents

"It's important for parents to get control of their feelings and try to calm the child," said Carol Samit, Assistant Coordinator of the Family Crisis Program at North Shore.

"Try not to show anger or pain. It will not help the child to confide," she added. "And above all, be careful not to give the impression, even the underlying impression, of blaming the child."

According to studies, Dr. Kaplan added, the children who recover most fully from sex abuse are the children who have had the support of a non-offending adult.

Thomas Feniger, Ph.D., Director of Pupil Personnel Services in the Great Neck Public Schools, explained the school's approach. "Once you identify a child," he said. "We try to serve both as educators and as conduits—we have tried to get children and parents who need help to the experts who can help."

"We are not a treatment agency," he continued. "We would do a disservice to dabble."

Warning to Parents

Det. Sgt. Galasso compared her experiences covering Great Neck's sex-abuse with a similar case in Freeport. "There parents put their own feelings of guilt, shame, and embarrassment behind them," she said, "and let us help."

Twenty-five percent of girls and nine percent of boys have been sexually abused before they reach the age of 18 according to Dr. Kaplan. Experts maintain, however, that these figures underestimate the problem because most children do not report sex crimes.

Cost of Catastrophic Coverage Explained At Senior Center Meeting

By Harry Schatz

Surprise, anger and concern were expressed by participants who attended a meeting held at the Great Neck Senior Citizen Center on Nov. 16 on the provisions and costs of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988. The speakers representing the Grey Panthers, were Alice Martin and Ruth Berlind.

Many in the audience were shocked to learn the method of financing via the costly and controversial supplemental premium or surtax on their Federal Income Tax. Despite the media publicity, a large segment of the audience was unaware of how the benefits were to be paid for what it would cost them. As the supplemental premium was explained by Mrs. Martin with its $125 percent surtax or $22.50 on every $150 of Federal Income taxes with a maximum of $1800 a person or $3600 per couple for 1989 and increase each year up to $350 and $100 by 1992, many people said that it was unfair and a serious financial burden. Mrs. Martin pointed out that this was in addition to the 14 month catastrophic increase to the existing Part B monthly premium scheduled at $27.00 for January 1, 1989 for a total of $31.90. With the rates scheduled to rise to $37.50 for each $150 of taxes owed in 1990; to $39.00 in 1991 and to $40.50 in 1992, there was general agreement that the costs were inordinately excessive.

Dissatisfaction was also expressed with many of the provisions of the law which were felt to be inadequate for the needs of Medicare beneficiaries. Reviewing some of the provisions, Mrs. Berlind said, "When the bill was being discussed in Congress, it sounded like a good idea with the government really concerned to find an answer to the medical problems of the aged. In its final form, it did not deliver what was promised."

Mrs. Berlind reviewed hospital stays, skilled nursing facility care, prescription drugs, home health care, hospice and respite care and the basic catastrophic change that puts a cap of $1350 in annual out-of-pocket expenses of Medicare allowed doctor bills. Commenting on the adequacy or insufficiency of each provision, Mrs. Berlind found drawbacks in many of the changes in the law which she felt simply failed to provide the necessary resolutions to the problems. She reminded the audience that everything she discussed was explained in the brochure entitled, Medicare Has Improved, sent to every Medicare beneficiary. "This pamphlet must be read carefully," she said, "by every beneficiary so that they understand each provision in the law."

Although Medicare benefits have been enhanced, a warning was issued by Mrs. Martin for beneficiaries not to cancel their Medicare, or other policies that supplemented Medicare, at this time. The law prevents duplication of Medicare benefits by private concerns who are required during the month of January to send a letter to their policy holders explaining what they are offering. It appears that in most cases a supplemental policy would be helpful, but no decision should be made at the present time.

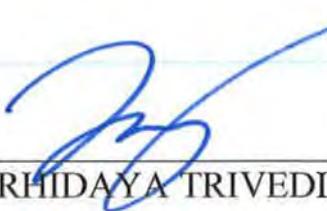

Ed. Note: A comprehensive review of the entire catastrophic law is forthcoming very soon.
